Sundance Channel and Court TV present films from THE FIRST AMENDMENT PROJECT, a highly innovative and wildly entertaining anthology of original films that challenges viewers to examine their understanding of civil liberties. Directed by acclaimed filmmakers, these films explore the various freedoms guaranteed by the First Amendment, including comedian Al Franken's hilarious battle against Fox News over trademark infringement.

- Sundance Channel and Court TV premiere in December '04; re-airings in April '05.
- Television airings supported by a multi-million dollar promotional campaign that includes national and local television and print advertising.
- Directed by award-winning and critically-acclaimed filmmakers Mario van Peebles (BaadAsssss!), Chris Hegedus (The War Room) and Nick Doob, and John Walter (How to Draw a Bunny).
- Featuring Grammy® Award-winning comedian Al Franken and activist writer Amiri Baraka.
- Loaded with bonus features including never-before-seen outtakes, Amiri Baraka performing his controversial poem, and much more!

DVD FEATURES INCLUDE: Comic Strips ■ Mario van Peebles' Interview Outtakes ■ Alternative R.N.C. Photo Gallery ■ Amiri Baraka Statement ■ Performance of "Somebody Blew Up America" by Amiri Baraka ■ Deleted Scene: Profile of a Protester ■ Interactive Menus ■ Scene Selection
