

THE TOMORROW PEOPLE

1
SET

The Long Lost British Sci-Fi Classic

Welcome to the next stage of human evolution: children with amazing powers. Not your everyday Homo sapiens, the Tomorrow People are Homo superiors, children with amazing powers—here in our world TODAY.

Originally broadcast on ITV in the 1970s, THE TOMORROW PEOPLE introduced British television viewers to an instant cult classic in sci-fi adventuring. Stephen, an ordinary schoolboy, learns he is actually one of the Tomorrow People, teenagers with powers of telekinesis, teleportation (called “jaunting”), and telepathy. Hidden away in the secret underground lab and protected by the supercomputer Tim, the Tomorrow People look for the emergence of more of their kind and battle evil, alien forces from the farthest reaches of space and time.

Thought provoking, action packed, and creatively produced, this first set of THE TOMORROW PEOPLE contains all twenty-six episodes from its first two seasons on DVD for the first time.

- The sci-fi cult classic—never before available in North America.
- A campy, kitschy television series—with high nostalgic value for 20-and 30-somethings—available as full-season sets on DVD for the first time.
- Nickelodeon aired an update of THE TOMORROW PEOPLE in the 1990s.
