

THE HISTORY CHANNEL® PRESENTS

EGYPT

ENGINEERING

AN EMPIRE™

Explore the world's first superpower and its stunning accomplishments

Hosted by actor and art historian Peter Weller, this feature-length special premieres just before the new weekly series from THE HISTORY CHANNEL®, Engineering An Empire. EGYPT: ENGINEERING AN EMPIRE narrates Egypt's awe-inspiring engineering accomplishments through the prism of its pharaohs' indomitable personalities, who pushed their royal architects to stretch the boundaries of imagination and human potential, essentially inventing the science of structural engineering. Follow the empire's development from the First Dynasty of 3000 BC to the last days of the reign of Ramses the Great in 1212 BC.

Through cutting-edge digital graphics and countless interviews with noted Egyptologists, THE HISTORY CHANNEL® chronicles the pharaohs and feats that brought forth the world's very first superpower.

- EGYPT is the fast-paced follow-up to the critically acclaimed Rome: Engineering an Empire. A new weekly series from THE HISTORY CHANNEL®, Engineering an Empire, premieres in October 2006.
- Hosted and narrated by actor and art-historian Peter Weller.
- EGYPT explores the extraordinary period from the First Dynasty of 3000 BC to the end of the reign of Ramses the Great in 1212 BC.
