

THE HISTORY CHANNEL® PRESENTS

THE Spanish-American WAR

FIRST INTERVENTION

Experience the conflict that first made America a recognized world power

"It has been a splendid little war," wrote Secretary of State John Hay of the Spanish-American War. Over the course of 113 historic days in 1898, the United States established itself as a true world power, expanding its reach from Cuba to the Philippines. THE HISTORY CHANNEL® presents the excitement, gore, and glory of the Spanish-American War in this comprehensive feature-length film. From the sinking of the USS Maine to the Rough Riders' legendary charge up San Juan Hill, some of the most iconic stories and images of the new American superpower were forged in this short war. The consequences of which are still debated today.

- An indepth profile of America's first foray into global war—and its debut as a world superpower.
- This 2½ hour feature length film is the most comprehensive examination of THE SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR available.
- Features key events and players of the war from the explosion of the USS Maine and the Battle of San Juan Hill to George Dewey and Theodore Roosevelt.
