Whether you're a long-time aficionado or a recent convert, DANCING TO NEW ORLEANS will give you a great appreciation for the amazing gumbo that is the music of Louisiana. More than any other place, Louisiana has influenced the development of American music; its rich and unique mix of diverse cultures can be recognized in most modern American music forms including Country, Cajun, Zydeco, Jazz, Blues, and R&B.

DANCING TO NEW ORLEANS is a tour of that fantastic musical legacy, from Shreveport's "Louisiana Hayride," where Hank Williams first popularized Country music, to New Orleans—the birthplace of Jazz.

Hear from the artists, musicians, and craftsmen who are working to preserve this musical legacy, and see how the people, culture and land of Louisiana have nurtured its music and created sounds that have forever impacted music and music fans around the world.

- A must have collector's item for music fans—no collection is complete without it!
- Jam-packed with live performance footage by Buckwheat Zydeco, BeauSoleil, Raymond Myles, The Dirty Dozen Brass Band, Lionel Ferbos, C.J. Chenier, Clarence "Gatemouth" Brown, Big Jack Johnson, John Campbell, the Neville Brothers, Allen Toussaint, Irma Thomas and more.
- Aired on Bravo, Sunday May 11, 2003.

"It's music that you don't find no other place on the planet"
