SYNOPSIS Regardless of the almost impossible odds—with the chances of winning a Powerball jackpot just one in almost 200 million—everyone dreams of winning the lottery. In fact, one of our favorite national pastimes is asking, "What would you do with all that money?" Directed by Jeffrey Blitz (Spellbound), LUCKY offers a glimpse into the world of lotteries by investigating what happens to the individuals who win them. Though coming from a diverse range of backgrounds, the lives of all these winners are radically transformed—some for the better, and some for the worse. Together, their stories illustrate what happens to human beings when material obstacles are suddenly wiped away.
